EXERCISE 1

Read the following article aloud.

次の記事を声に出して読みましょう。

Our sales staff all carry company-issued Bramble cell phones.

After we upgraded these phones,

we got a lot of complaints about the latest version.

My department volunteered to experiment with another company's phone, the Kernel V5, to evaluate it as a possible replacement for the Bramble.

After using both for a week,

we overwhelmingly preferred the V5 over the Bramble.

It was far easier to get work done with the V5 than with the Bramble, even though it's a little heavier. Our opinions were backed up by test results. Our IT technicians tested speed, battery life, and signal strength for both models.

In every category, the Kernel V5 was superior to the newest Bramble model.

Of course, it would be cheaper to stay with our Bramble phones. However, the sales staff will be much more productive with the V5. In the long run, I believe the Kernel V5 is the most cost-effective option for us.

EXERCISE 3

Practice speaking using the following scenarios.

それぞれの状況に沿って、スピーキングを練習しましょう!

Talk 1

Your company is planning to hold an annual dinner event for your suppliers and customers. You are in a committee that is in charge of choosing a hotel to host the event. All of the committee members strongly agree that the Horton Hotel is cheaper and has better service than the Hotel Royale.

Express the committee's preference to the company director (your teacher).

Talk 2

You have been testing a new presentation software product called Lectern for the past two weeks. You think it's much easier to learn, faster to use, and produces more attractive slides than another program, TalkMaster. Recommend Lectern to a co-worker (your teacher).

Talk 3

You are planning to upgrade your office's computer network.

Two IT service vendors have given you a bid. Central Tech Services gave you a lower bid, but you think that Alphanet will design a network that will require less maintenance and be easier to upgrade in the future. You think this makes Alphanet the cheaper choice overall. Describe your preference to your supervisor (your teacher) and recommend Alphanet for long-term savings.

Writing 1

Your company has developed a new granola bar, Snack Slim.

You hope it will compete against Healthy Pick, a popular granola bar made by a rival company. Healthy Pick has low calories, is cheap, and is comes in five flavors. Snack Slim will come in eight flavors, be 10% cheaper than Healthy Pick, and have fewer calories. Write a short advertisement for Snack Slim, comparing it to Healthy Pick.

Writing 2

Your company has been using two delivery services for the past six months. Chandler Freight is cheaper, but Fox Delivery has better service.

Chandler Freight has more delays and caused more damage to shipments.

There have also been more customer complaints about Chandler.

Write an e-mail to Kendra Layton, your company president, and recommend choosing just one delivery company.
