OBJECTIVES

To suggest a point is valid ある点は有効であることを伝える

To encourage being open to debate 議論に耳を傾けるよう促す

To request ideas for a solution 解決策へのアイディアを求める

EXERCISE 1

Role-play: Teacher » Becky / Student » Sam. (Switch roles after you read the dialogue) 役割 (講師》Becky/生徒》Sam)にあわせて文章を読みましょう! ダイアログを読んだ後は役割を交代しましょう。

Becky Paul, I completely disagree with you; it's impossible to pull in the launch date at this late stage. We are working flat out as it is, and I'm not 100% sure we're going to be ready to launch by September, never mind August 15th.

Sam Hold on, Becky. Paul may have a point. Let's at least consider his argument. Can you see why he thinks an earlier launch is better?

Becky Well, Sam, I understand it's better to get the product on the market sooner. Since our target market is kids in their early teens, it will be easier to get their attention in August, before their summer vacation ends.

Sam And that's our most important objective. We need kids to see the advertising and get to the shops while they have free time. So, how can we make it happen?

Becky Well, I suppose if we delayed a few other projects, we could pull it off.

Sam Great. Then that's what we should do.

EXERCISE 2 Fill in the blanks and read the dialogue. 空欄を埋めて、ダイアログを読みましょう!

EXERCISE 3

Practice speaking using the following scenarios.

それぞれの状況に沿って、スピーキングを練習しましょう!

Talk 1

You are chairing a team meeting. Two of your colleagues are having a disagreement. Ralph thinks the sales presentation is ready, but Cindy thinks it needs more work. Suggest to Ralph (your teacher) that Cindy's point is valid. Encourage being open to debate.

Talk 2

You are chairing a negotiation. The union representative, Margaret, believes that wages should be raised because the company made a lot of profit last year. However, the management representative, Keith, believes that sales are going to be lower this year and the company needs to keep costs low to survive. Suggest to Margaret (your teacher) that Keith's point is valid. Encourage being open to debate.

Talk 3

You are leading a project team that is designing a new educational computer game. Two of the team members are having a disagreement. Ewan wants to change the schedule so there's more time for the design stage, even though it will leave less time for the programming stage. He thinks a better design will make the programming stages easier. On the other hand, Ivanna wants more time for the programming stage. Suggest to Ivanna (your teacher) that Ewan's point is valid. Encourage being open to debate. Request ideas for a solution.

HOMEWORK

Writing 1

Two members of your team are having a disagreement. Larry thinks your factory equipment is inefficient and should be replaced. He believes the money saved through increased efficiency will equal the cost of the equipment within two years. However, Gerry doesn't want to replace the equipment because it is only four years old. Write an e-mail to Gerry. Suggest Larry's point is valid.

Writing 2

Your colleagues are having a disagreement. Brian thinks a lot of time is being wasted in unnecessary meetings. June thinks meetings are important to encourage teamwork. Write an e-mail to June. Suggest Brian's point is valid. Request ideas for a solution.
